About the Author

Tina Darmohray is Assistant VP and Chief Information Security Officer for Stanford University. Previously she spent a decade as a consultant specializing in the area of computer and network security. Prior to that she was the lead for the UNIX support team at Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory. Darmohray was a founding board member of SAGE, the System Administrators Guild, and has served on the USENIX Board of Directors. She holds B.S. and M.S. degrees from the University of California, Berkeley.