Hello,

This recent election has been a shock to my system. I can't believe I live in a country that would elect a person who ran on a campaign of hatred and bigotry. But if there is a silver lining, it has compelled the rest of us to act. I will no longer be silent. I will fight this bigotry with every fiber of my being.

As a Jew, it's been especially startling to see the rise of Anti-Jewish incidents; this is part of an overall rise in prejudicial hatred. Anti-Jew has gone hand-in-hand with anti-black, anti-Muslim, and anti-whomever.

The coincidence of timing between this trend and the political phenomenon of Donald Trump is not merely coincidence. The political themes that Trump has ridden to the White House play directly upon, and stoke further, the sorts of prejudices that can take violent forms and that may be manifested in overturned gravestones in a cemetery.

We must support our Jewish community, LGBT brothers and sisters, and all others who will be victimized by the Trump regime.

With that being said...I am reaching out to find out if any universities are doing work to help stop the rise of hate speech online?? We have to start somewhere. I'd like to explore joining a group of activists who can explore fighting against this hate speech.

Can you please direct me further?

Thank you,
Emilee Reid

Dear Professor Stringhini,

I have a quick question regarding Community Studies Project 12 where we have to post against hatespeech. Please email me back as soon as you get this email. Thank you.

Community Studies Project 12:

Over the last four courses we have shifted from community activism in real world scenarios to internet activism in support for minorities, refugees and non-documented citizens. In collaboration with 14 other universities from across the world we will be focusing the remaining lessons on online activism as a whole.

The past 8 lessons has been on methods to address "hate groups" and privilege power structures in the United States, Canada, Scandinavia and Europe. This will be an online activism activity in which you utilize the core methods (Silence, Shut Down & Self Support) in fighting one of the largest online hate communities that affects many countries: 4chan.org/pol/ (/pol/ for short).

As we covered in lesson 9c, /pol/ stands for "Politically Incorrect". Unlike communities such as Stormfront, ATS and smaller outlets for rhetoric from the "Alt-Right"; /pol/ experiences a large amount of internal division from its members. You can review lesson 9c to get more information on /pol/ (and other online communities) if you need more information.

Please make sure you have downloaded the required software for Windows or Mac in order to communicate with your group. Your group will be made up of six students. As this is a collaboration with other universities you will be randomly partnered with students. (Note: There may be language barriers within groups. We recommend using free translation tools available online. For a list please contact me.)

Please be forewarned that the content on /pol/ can be very offensive and disturbing. You may feel free to take Safe Breaks while discussing activism on this website. Please stick to the following subjects:

- LGBTQ+ Issues*
- Gender Issues*
- Women's Rights*
- Non-White Racial Issues*
- White Privileges and Power*
- Islam*
- Marxism (references are available in your references tab)*
- Hate Speech*
- Alt-Right Offenses*

*We ask that you stay away from Trump related topics as you will be in a multi-national group and Trump related topics may not apply to them.

Do not expect to "win" any arguments, and it would be recommended to avoid long arguments. Due to the structure of /pol/ a good technique would be to stick to the core methods. I will provide examples below. Please stick to /pol/ as the rest of the site is not politically motivated. Make sure you visit /pol/ (www.4chan.org/pol/) and not /po/ as it is not politically motivated.

A good example of utilizing the core method would be:
Start a "thread" involving one of the subjects above.
Have your group partners reply, while each starts their own "thread" about the same issue and you reply to it.
This will essentially flood their limited amount of subjects and, much like protesting in the real world, take down their ability to reply, discuss or "reason".

Attached is a tutorial video on how to start a "thread" on 4chan along with useful tips.

We will be reviewing methods in class the following week and altering methods as a whole, sharing this information between all participating classes.

PLEASE AVOID BEING BANNED.

If you are banned please contact me at ██████████@██████████.edu

Identifying raided videos on YouTube

Videos showing a high degree of synchronization with 4chan threads tend to attract comments that contain more hate speech

Paper \(CSCW 2019\)

What to do about raids?

Our measurement allowed us to collect a ground truth dataset of raided videos

Can we predict which videos will get raided and help moderators?

Our approach can determine the likelihood that a YouTube video will be raided at upload time with AUC 0.94, allowing for proactive moderation.

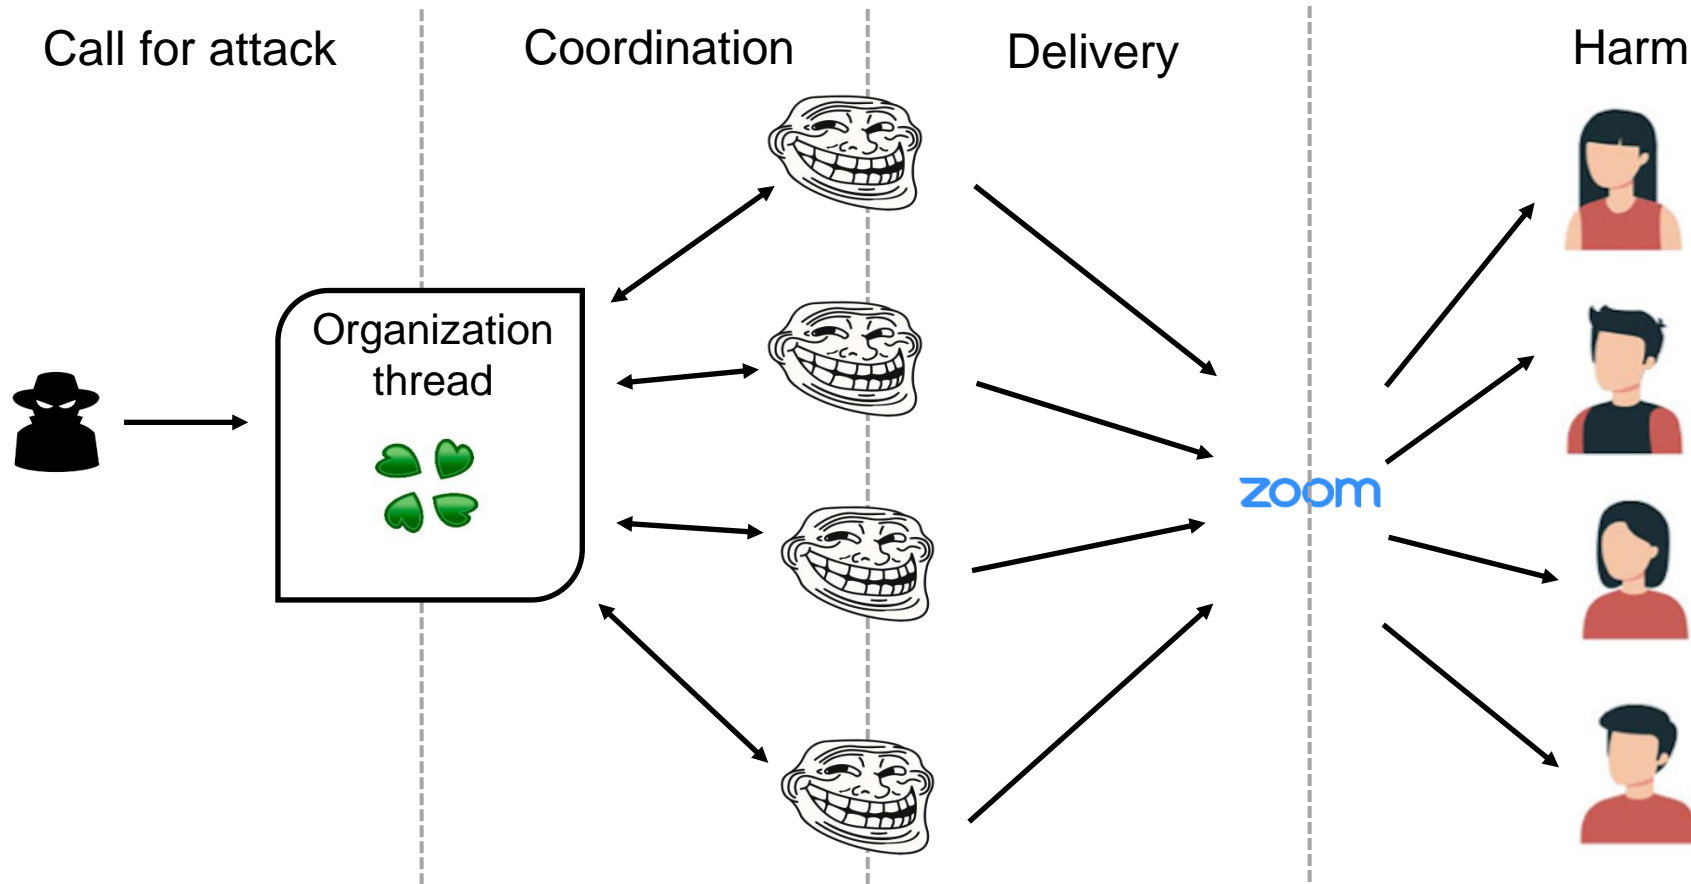

Our entire lives have moved online

The latest threat - zoombombing

Paper \(Oakland 2021\)

Measuring zoombombing

10 meeting services

- Zoom

- Hangouts
- Webex

• 434 threads on 4chan 218 calls for zoombombing

- 3,500 tweets

70% are called by insiders

93% target meetings
happening in real time

We need to rethink our defense mechanisms

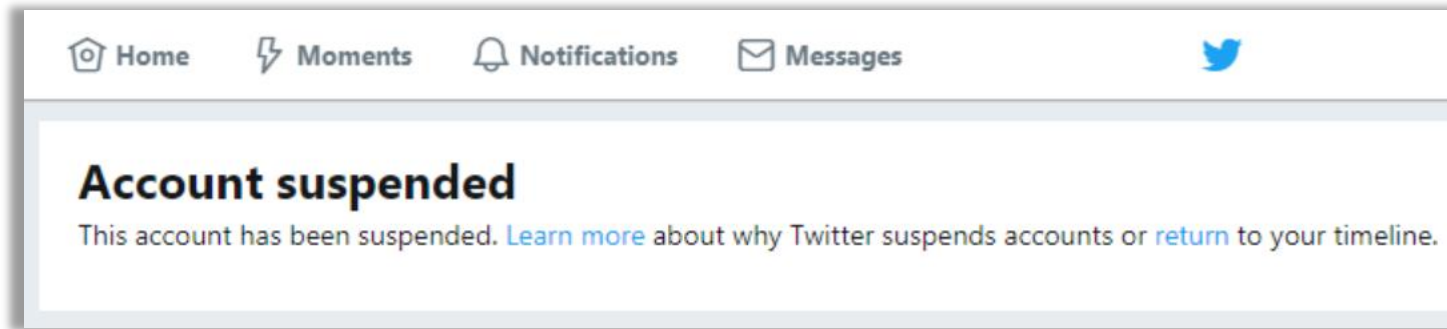

- Passwords don't help
- Waiting rooms don't help

Only two services allow one-time unique links for each participant

Does deplatforming work?

Paper \(WIP\)

People can move to alternative an unmoderated communities

- Will they become more toxic?
- Will they get radicalized?
- Will they come back under false identities?

Conclusion

Looking at cross-platform activity can help identify raids early

Defense mechanisms need to be developed against insiders

More research on deplatforming is needed
